SPECIAL ELECTION RESULTS IN A FLASH Tallies to be Broadcast Live on County Television Network

More numbers. Less talk. This election night, the County of San Diego is making it easier for residents to get special election results.

County residents can now keep up with the recall results by simply tuning in to the County Television Network (CTN). Say good-bye to the commentary of political pundits and see just the local results on the recall election and propositions as they are tallied by the County Registrar of Voters. The results will be updated every five minutes.

"Imagine being able to get the very latest election results directly, without all the speculation from local pundits and commentators," Michael Workman, director of the County Media and Public Relations Department. "We will be airing local results as well as statewide numbers."

The CTN broadcast will begin at 8 p.m. with results from absentee ballots. Results from polling places throughout the County will start about 9:45 p.m.

CTN can be found on Time Warner 22, Cox 19 (North) and 24 (South), and Adelphia 66.

For those who want to view the results on their computers, all local and statewide results can also be seen at the website for the County Registrar of Voters: www.sdvote.com.
